

ESTANCIA MENDOZA – THE PARADISE AT THE FOOT OF THE ANDES

✓ DAY 01 – MENDOZA– HALF DAY CITY TOUR

Arrival to Mendoza airport and transfer to the hotel.

At the heart of the Andes Mountain range, Mendoza is located in the western central part of the country, in the Cuyo region. Founded in 1561 by the conquistador Pedro del Castillo, the province was rebuilt in 1861 after an earthquake. Around the 1890s, following the development of the wine industry, the region began to grow quickly and to attract European migrants. Besides the highly recommended wine tourism, there is a great tourism offer in Mendoza and around.

Rivers, valleys and mountains of Mendoza are ideal natural settings for the practice of adventure tourism. In the water, rafting and cool river kayaking stand out as key leisure activities. In the mountains, it is possible to practice rappel, mountain bike, adventure tours, climbing and zip-lining. The Aconcagua

Provincial Park, a national park located on the international route to Chile is a great place for this. The place is characterized by its high summits, rising towards the sky. Reaching its greatest expression, Aconcagua (22,841 ft.), the highest peak in the Americas, catches the attention of mountaineers coming from all around the world.

In addition to these nature activities, rural tourism that combines regional landscapes, architecture and cuisine, folklore and traditions that are all carefully preserved by people representing Mendoza's identity.

Half day City Tour:

The tourist circuit of the city and its surroundings allows you to get in touch with a modern city, known for its trees, its wide paths and its cleanliness. This tour illustrates about the history and culture of a people with indigenous Huarpe and Inca origins, and the colonizers more than four centuries ago.

The tour includes places such as La Alameda, the Foundation Area (Pedro del Castillo Square), the Aquarium, the Serpenterium, the main avenues of the microcenter, Independence Square, the Memorial, the Civic Neighborhood and Emilio Civit Avenue, through which you can reach the General San Martín Park through the Gates, with its almost 600 forested hectares.

Breakfast at the hotel.

Through the Wine Roads you can get to know the wineries of Mendoza and enjoy their excellent wines, which are the result of ecological viticulture and have - especially the reds - a high antioxidant capacity.

In the last twenty years there has been an important reconversion of vineyards, which allows Mendoza to have a greater quantity of high quality wines to satisfy the growing demand of the international market. During this period, more than 25,000 hectares of new vineyards of fine grape varieties were planted in the province. Among the red varieties, the ranking is headed by the Malbec variety, followed by Cabernet, Merlot, Syrah and Bonarda; and among the white varieties, Chardonnay and Chenin predominate.

'VALLE DE UCO': It includes the departments of Tunuyán, San Carlos and Tupungato. The vineyards extend at an altitude ranging from 900 to 1200 meters above sea level.

The most widespread varieties are Malbec, Barbera, Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot.

Excellent white varieties are also grown, such as Semillon, Sauvignon Blanc and Chardonnay.

These visits have been designed as tours during which you will visit two wineries with very different characteristics: small and large, old and modern. You walk through their vineyards, and a tasting session takes place, with the possibility of buying the wines at the winery itself.

- ✚ FD Wineries Valle de Uco with guide includes visits to two wineries with lunch.
